

Undercover Cop Reading answers

1. Training prepared him so he would not give himself away to the group he'd infiltrated while under pressure.
2. They need a special collection of stories which they can rely on and assume different identities when operating under cover.
3. They were kidnapped by special forces, put in a metal box and then interrogated.
4. He had to pretend to find child pornography interesting.
5. Sometimes they have been compromised, for example. when officers spent far too much money pretending to be successful criminals and even were judged to have created state crime by encouraging people to join in a corrupt network.
6. They have to live a double life with their undercover identity alongside their real identity.
7. It can destroy a marriage due to the immense strain of keeping up a double identity.
8. It was easy for him to pretend to befriend paedophiles and then betray them, as their crimes was so horrible, but with people who were peripheral to a case and not really as criminal as they themselves made out to be, it was harder to deal with, as they had not really done anything terribly wrong.